Advancing Norwalk Children on the Path to Economic and Social Mobility
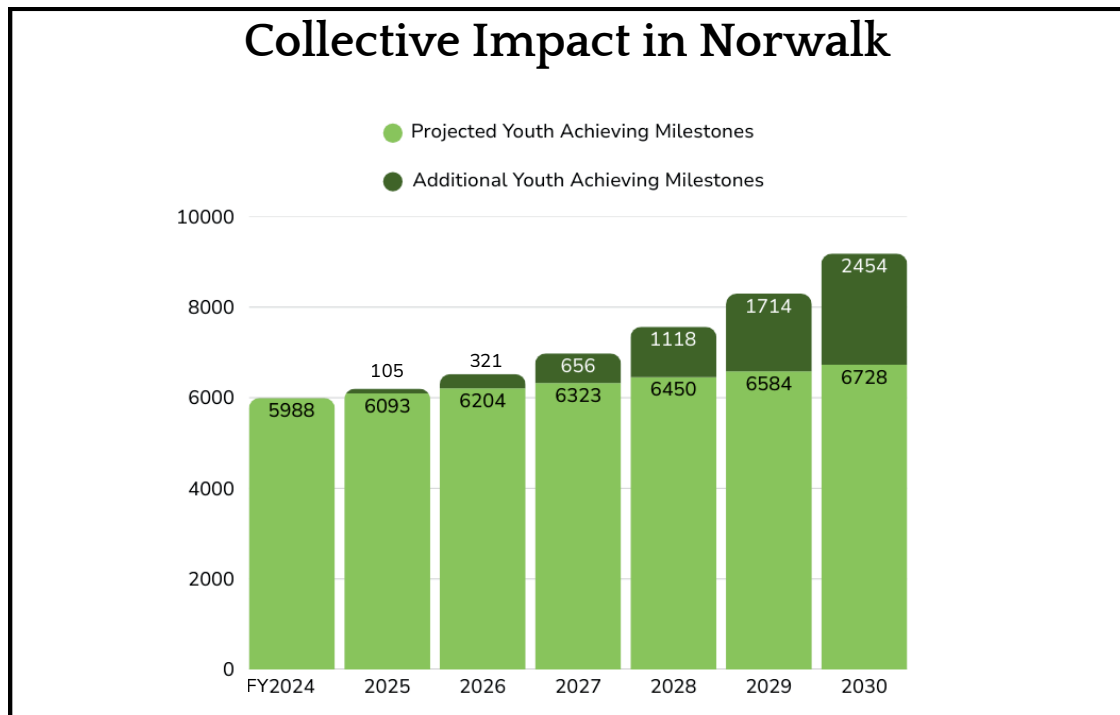

"Working together, everything is achievable"

With your commitment and ours, by 2030, 2,454 more Norwalk youth will be on the pathway to economic and social mobility, bringing the total to 6,728 youth across our community.

This Norwalk goal to change lives will help us:

- Motivate: Clear progress in real lives impacted, not just systems.
- Align: Shared metrics unite schools, nonprofits, and community partners toward one vision.
- Sustain: Measurable goals and achievements attract lasting investment and resources.

When young people meet key cradle-to-career milestones — from kindergarten readiness to employment — they are far more likely to achieve economic and social mobility: the ability to build economic success, power, and autonomy while feeling valued in their community. Each milestone compounds opportunity, and each missed milestone deepens inequity.

StriveTogether has set a bold goal: 4 million more youth on a path to economic mobility by 2030. As a member of this national network, Norwalk ACTS is committed to our local contribution — our Norwalk goal of over 2,000. We are also part of the Connecticut Cradle to Career (CT C2C) Coalition, alongside Bridgeport, Danbury, Stamford, and Waterbury, aligning local action to both a statewide and national vision. This work represents how many Norwalk youth we will support in reaching key milestones that open lifelong opportunities.
